Who we are:

The primary goal of the team is to enable improved palliative care for people living with advanced dementia, with mental and physical health needs in care homes/supported living or their own home.

The team will be focused on ensuring the person remains at home (wherever home is) and avoiding unnecessary acute care admission.

We aim to guide and educate professionals and informal caregivers in the delivery of best practice in palliative and end of life care, for people with advanced dementia.

What is palliative care?

Palliative care is for anyone diagnosed with a life-limiting illness, including dementia. It focuses on maintaining a person's quality of life by relieving discomfort or distress (whatever the cause).

Someone with dementia can receive palliative care for several years and it may be offered alongside other treatments. Any palliative care in place will continue alongside end of life care.
